The Water Mill.

Listen to the water mill; Through the livelong day, How the clicking of its wheel Wears the hours away! Wears the hours away!
Languidly the autumn wind
Stirs the forest leaves,
From the field the reapers sing,
Binding up their sheaves;
And a proverb haunts my mind
As a spell is cast—
"The mill cannot grind
With the water that is past."

Take the lesson to thyself,
True and loving heart;
Golden youth is fleeting by,
Summer hours depart;
Learn to make the most of life,
Lose no happy day,
Time will never bring thee back
Chances swept away!
Leave no tender word unsaid.
Love while love shall last—
"The mill cannot grind
With the water that is past."

O, the wasted hours of life
That have drifted by!
O, the good that might have been—
Lost, without a sigh!
Love that we might once have saved
By a single word.
Thoughts conceived, but never penned,
Perishing unheard;
Take the provert to thine heart,
Take and hold it fast—
"The mill cannot grind
With the water that is past."

F I leave all for thee, wilt thou exchange
And be all to me? Shall I never miss
Home-talk and blessing and the common kiss
That comes to each in turn, nor count it strange, When I look up, to drop on a new range

When I look up, to drop on a new range
Of walls and floors, another home than this?
Nay, wilt thou fill that place by me which is
Fill'd by dead eyes too tender to know change
That's hardest? If to conquer love, has tried,
To conquer grief, tries more, as all things prove,
For grief indeed is love and grief beside.
Alas! I have griev'd so I am hard to love.
Yet love me—wilt thou? Open thine heart wide,
And fold within the wet wings of thy dove.

WADE TO COURT

Man Who Shot at Rev. James Buchanan Not the Least Regretful,

"BUTTED" INTO TROUBLE

Young Man Applauded at Wrong Time and Justice John Soaks Him.

George Wade, the young white man who last Saturday night attempted to murder Rev. James Buchanan, of the Associated Charities, boldly declared in Police Court yesterday morning, when arraigned on the charge, that he shot to kill, and that the only reason he did not kill the minister was because he didn't have but one bullet in his revolver, "He had treated me wrong, and the only way I could get revenge on him was to shoot him," said the man, looking as solemn and as unconcerned as was to shoot him, said the man, looking as solemn and as unconcerned as though he was telling of some trivial incident in the life of another person. He was ordered held for the grandjury, and in the higher court it is very probable that a plea of insanity will be entered. This has saved the man from the penitentiary once, but if the efforts of Commonwealth's Attorney Minitree Folkes are availing it will not serve Wade this time.

While Wade was giving his testimony he referred to Dr. Buchanan as not being a gentleman, saying that he had found him out, and that he hoped other people would, and that "these places (meaning the Associated Charities Home) ought to be broke up."

"Good!"

The voice came from the throng of men who had packed into the chamber of the City Hail near the door from the corridor.

Court Officers Robins and Gibbons looked immediately for the man who had made the remark, and Officer Atfanson, who was looking in the direction at the time, pointed out Ernest Wells, a young white man about twenty-one years of age.

Wells denied having made the remark.

wells denied having made the remark. Wells denied having made the remark, but the officer swore positively that he was looking at him when he called out.

"Fine you $20, and you'll have to give me security, too, for your good behavior," said Justice Crutchfield, and the young man was placed in the pen.

After court he denied having made the remark, but said that he knew who did say liz. He refused to tell who the party was.

The incident created a great deal of confusion and excitement in the courtroom at the time.

"It is bordering on anarchism," said a well-known citizen, who was present, and many were of his bellef.

and many were of his bellef.

Starving, Took Him In.

Rev. Mr. Buchanan testified to substantially what has been printed in The Times-Dispatch. He added, however, that about fifteen months ago Wade came to him at the old Bailard House without clothes or shoes and half-starved. "We took him in, fed him and gave him a little work to do around the place, so that he could earn enough to get some clothing. He did this, and I afterwards secured him a position at $20 a month. He saved up a little money and after about three months out the job. We employed a cook at the Home, and he was put to cooking. One morning about 4 o'clock he suddenly disappeared and remained away for a long time. Returning, he was ngain hungry and without many clothes. I was away at the time, and he told my assistant that he had rented a room from me. He was shown the room and then, without the knowledge or the consent of any one, entered another room and cut a hole in the wall. It was for this that I remonstrated with him and this caused him to fire at me."

Mr. R. N. Humphries, secretary to Dr. Buchanan, corroborated the testimony, and Wade was asked if he wanted to say anything.

"How do you know she stole your hat and two covers?" sked the court of a black woman who had been victimized.

"She must er done it, Judge, case she got de hat on her haid how; dar its." and a long boney finger pointed to the skyplece of Easbella.

When the case was finished and Isabella turned towards the pen she thought of returnitied towards the pen she thought of the gardeness of all right.

"Hold!"

The one word came like a bolt from Mr. Robins, the gallant and modest, and some other place the change will be made.

STRUCK HIS NEPHEW.

But W. W. Cox Was Aggressor and the Axe Fell on Him.

Of the charge of striking his nephew, W. W. Cox, with a monkeywrench, R. W. Cary was dismissed in Police Court yesterday morning. It developed during the hearing of the case whe got the total to the door, and then kicked me out. I think this was very ungentlemanly. I think this was very ungentlemanly. I think this was very ungentlemanly. I think this was very ungentlemanly and an and I am just George Wade. I would have been fined and he would have been fund and he would

He Shot to Kill.

"You mean, then, that you tried to kill Dr. Buchanan because he rebuked you for cutting the hole in the wall?" isked the court.

"Yes, sir."
"I'd you tell the officer that you would have killed him if you had have had five bullets in a revolver?"
"Yes, I said that, and I would have done so. You see, I was getting low in money, and I just bought the pistol for twenty-five cents from a pawnshop, I didn't have enough money to buy a good pistol, or I would have killed him," answered Wade, without a scintilla of remorse in his voice or fear of the consequences of his act in his manner and bearing.

queness of his act in his manner and bearing.
Wade is a man about twenty-five years of age, and about five feet eight inches tall. He will weigh about 140 pounds. His eyes are small, very small, and shifty. His forehead slopes to his eyebrows, and the back of his head protrudes. He is the very type of a moral degenerate, scarcely responsible for his acts, with a temper that is ungovernable, and absolutely no moral staming. He is a dangerous man to any community, for, according to his own testimony, a liuman life would be nothing to him if he francled in his small brain that a wrong had been done him.

HONOR CAPTAIN COOK.

Picket t Camp Detail Attends Funeral of Federal Veteran. At a meeting of Pickett Camp, Monday

At a meeting of Pickett Camp, Monday night, resolutions of respect and sympathy to the memory of Captain, C. B. Cook were passed by the Confederate veterans, who appreciated to the highest degree the well known integrity and manly character of a former Union solidier, who for many years had been a citizen of Richmond and held a business here, conducting himself in every way so as to win confidence and inspire respect.

A committee from Pickett Camp, including Captain R. N. Northern, Mossrs, Charles T. Lohr, Sidney R. Gates and Mr. Echols, were appointed to attend the funeral and burial services of Captain Cook, takings place, at moon yesterday, from the home of his son-in-law, Mr. William J. King, of Fulton. The interment was at Riverview Cometery, Beside the committee, Captain J. B. Shillivan, Mr. R. D. Brown and the Rev. B. W. Talley, of Pickett Camp, were present, all representatives of the camp being attired in full Confederate uniform.

The Rev. Mr. Talley made in former and cloquent address at the grave. The occasion was specially impressive, giving by the men "who were the grave" to a solider who fought agalasst them, in the Pederal army, but who had recombed all differences of feeling and opition and who in death received the tribute and the confidence and friendship of Confederate veterans and of the entire community.

Give Mr. Freund a Banquet.

To-morrow evening at eight o'clock, Mr. J. G. Corley will entertain Mr. John C. Freund, of New York, editor of the Music Trades, together with a number of guests, representing the plazo and organ trade of Richmond and Viyrinia and North Carolina, at a baquet at Murphy's Hotel.

While the occasion will be primarily a social affair, Mr. Freund's visit to Richmond is in connection with a trin that he is now making through the South in the interests of the musical instrument manufacturing industry of which his pare is probably the official organ for the United States.

Liest year. Mr. Freund made a tour of the West, South and Northwest, including the State of Comming a trip similar of the one he is now undertuking—and which resulted in much benefit to the industry which his paper represents in the territory that he visited, He is an ardent admirer of the South and a firm believer in the great future in store for this section from a commercial, manufacing and generally, progressive standpoint.
